

Cool bodywork tutorial

Posted by Quandry - 2010/05/24 16:19

---

Wish I had the patience for this.... Would be handy to be good at rust repairs etc. I suspect it takes a lot of time/practice to learn however..

<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=IGEISHzm0q8>

The guy also sells a dvd, for anyone that is interested:

http://www.metalshapingzone.com/shop/page/1?shop\_param=

=====

Re:Cool bodywork tutorial

Posted by Marty J - 2010/05/24 18:35

---

I admire craftsmen who have skills such as those. I enjoy watching something being formed from a flat piece of metal into a bodypart for a car. :)

=====

Re:Cool bodywork tutorial

Posted by SWAGGER - 2010/05/24 18:47

---

Agreed, crafts like that are dying out. Its such a shame because its nothing short of incredible watching stuff like that. I used to do metalwork & engineering in school, loved it and wish I had a big garage or workshop and the TIME (& skill LOL) to mess around like that. :huh:

=====

Re:Cool bodywork tutorial

Posted by Quandry - 2010/05/24 19:03

---

SWAGGER wrote:

Agreed, crafts like that are dying out. Its such a shame because its nothing short of incredible watching stuff like that. I used to do metalwork & engineering in school, loved it and wish I had a big garage or workshop and the TIME (& skill LOL) to mess around like that. :huh:

Me too. Please Euro millions - this week!!!!

=====