

READ THIS BEFORE SELLING HERE

These are the rules for posting anything for sale in this thread. If you don't follow the rules, a moderator is entitled to delete your post without warning. If there is any suspicion about you being the legitimate owner of what you are selling, the Garda, PSNI, or UK Police will be alerted. You have been warned.

Rule 1: Do not list something for sale as your first thread. On the Internet this is considered Rude as it is like walking in to a large hall of people that don't know you and demanding immediate trust. Generally members who are known, attend meets, or have inherited trust through having other trusted members vouch for them can be excluded from this rule.

Rule 2: You must own the goods to sell them. This includes someone who is "selling on behalf of a friend" - no go. As part of rule 1, you may be asked to prove that you actually own something, especially in the case of high value or questionable items. If you're unable to supply proof then moderators can delete your thread with no explanation.

Rule 3: No profiteering. If a moderator sees you buying low to sell high and it damages our community, you get banned.

Rule 4: Post a picture with what you're selling. If your pictures are not clear or not clear enough, a moderator will lock your thread until you've posted clearer pictures. Here is a writeup on how to post pictures on the site:

Rule 5: You must post a price. Do not post up 'thinking of' or 'just gauging interest' threads. We don't want teasers here. If you post it, you're selling it and put a price.

Rule 6: If you do sell something, then come back and tell people it is sold.

Rule 7: If you are selling a body kit item, you need to list if it is genuine or a copy. Unless you have proof that it is genuine, then list it as a copy.

Rule 8: If you sell something without fitting it yourself and advertising its fit, and the buyer gets something that clearly and undeniably won't fit, you either refund the full price including shipping or get an instant ban.

Rule 9: Use an appropriate description for the item.
MINT = Just like new, unmarked and working perfectly.
Very Good = Unquestionably good and worth having.
Good = Better than any item the same as it but it's own age.
Fair = Roughly as good as any other part it's own age.
Poor = Worse than Fair.

Rule 10: It is not acceptable to demand Paypal payments as personal gift, if you don't want to incur the paypal charges, then mark your price up accordingly.

Breaking any of the rules above can earn you a thread lock, thread delete, or outright ban depending on the severity present.
