After work one evening in May, I drove to Portadown to pick up these fantastic wheels from Mark. I left Galway at about 16.30 and I was in limerick at 01.00 after dropping the wheels off in Galway en route. It was a long day of 8 hours of driving after 8 hours of work, but well worth it.

The wheels are: Racing Sparco Python NS-II:

Front: 8x17j et32

Rear: 9x17j et38

I put 215/45R17 Falken 452 tyres on the front, and there are 255/40R17 on the rear.
Here's the front tyre, a little stretched on the rim, but no rubbing at all and NCT-passed.

Here's the look along the car from the rear (note how in-line the rear is, even with the 255 on a 9") - I know I need to polish it better!:

And the overall look on a perfectly standard '91 2.0 NA 3S-GE.

What do you think?
