

front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 12:44

Anyone have any nice front bumpers to suit these side skirts or even idea's be great <http://www.mr2.ie/images/fbfiles/images/6qfnnyu.jpg> <http://i57.tinypic.com/6qfnnyu.jpg>

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by Infamous - 2014/04/19 14:32

What about a nice aeroware front lip?
It will take your front down lower to match your skirts but still retain your oem front bumper.

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by spla300 - 2014/04/19 15:45

Go for a bomex front bumper.

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 15:51

that's a tasty lip any idea's where I'd get 1 ? ain't getting 1 from usa cost to much :(

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 15:58

no really gone on the bomex f/b , would love and I really mean LOVE to find even a copy fujimura front
but that aint going to happen :(

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by Cashy - 2014/04/19 16:18

I'd agree with you on the Bomex front and Also with the general consensus that a lip spoiler on the OEM bumper looks nicer than an aftermarket one. However if your heart is set and I'm probably gonna get grief for saying this but the 355 front bumper looks unreal in the flesh, and sits a lot lower! Just don't put the prancing horse on the front and get a set of round fogs and your all set :) Heres a link to what it looks like :

<http://www.designercars.net/biler/Toyota-MR2-18387.jpg>

PS - In case your wondering - I can't upload pics in work :(

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 16:34

do ya know Damien sent me a pic of that bumper a while back and didn't like it , and I think he sold it :(looks tasty in that colour :)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by Cashy - 2014/04/19 16:47

Ah what !?! I'd of been all over that if I had the chance Julio - 355 front, with your sides, Spats at the back and maybe an Aeroware spoiler (My New Fav :) or a mk5 one to finish it off !
Lovin the gold rims too, really works well on white!

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 16:54

Mr2-Ben has trd rep spoilers ;) be next it's 225 Euro delivered :D

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by spla300 - 2014/04/19 17:28

the way i see it lips/splitters are the cheap alternative to getting a proper front bumper. If ur too lazy to respray and fit the proper bumper yeah the splitter is the second best option. personally id never get the 355 bumper but i think even that is better than a splitter. But sure whatever floats ur boat...

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 18:08

Personally I'd pay the extra few pound for a fujimura f/b but there hens teeth, as for lips I don't mind there cheap and going to crack no matter how carefull you are :(if I saw a nice f/b that suited the skirts Id get them no matter of the price ;)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by Cashy - 2014/04/19 18:10

Actually Spla - I could'nt disagree more !
I love the smooth lines and fit and finish of the OEM bumper. A lot of aftermarket options are too fussy like veilside been a good example. Even TRD and TOM'S closely resemble the overall shape of it, but the original can look a little chinless (if that's a word :P) and fitting a nice splitter, like aeroware or bomex, isn't the second best option - I think its hands down the best way to go
But I suppose, your right, if we all liked the same thing - we'd all be driving the exact same MR2 with the exact same color, exact same wheels,... :laugh:

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by mike... - 2014/04/19 19:13

id have to go with cashy..I think some body kits take the nice lining and shape off the mr2..I think I'd prefer a nice lip on the original front bumper like aeroware..the only thing that's putting me off getting one is that my mr2 is red and I'm yet to see an aftermarket red bumper the same colour as the car without getting a whole respray:-)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by mike... - 2014/04/19 19:15

id have to go with cashy..I think some body kits take the nice lining and shape off the mr2..I think I'd prefer a nice lip on the original front bumper like aeroware..the only thing that's putting me off getting one is that my mr2 is red and I'm yet to see an aftermarket red bumper the same colour as the car without getting a whole respray:-)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/19 19:30

@Mike why don't you look into carbon creations they've some nice carbon bits ;)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by mike... - 2014/04/19 21:25

ya was thinking about getting afew carbon bits but not sure if I like it on the mr..might look into it though.cheers:-)

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/20 21:10

I think a lip is the way to go ;) now just to find 1 lol

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by leesw20 - 2014/04/26 20:36

glad to see these skirts finally on a car lol they had been lying in my garage for a year and half!

=====

Re: front bumper to suit

Posted by julio - 2014/04/27 15:21

Yup there a gud fit 2 just have them spats to do next then try and find a lip or bumper ;)